

Emergency Department Clinical Guidelines

ED/CCT Clinical Guidelines

Clinical Guidelines Disclaimer

These Guidelines are intended to offer a range of generally acceptable approaches to the acute management of commonly encountered Emergency Department/Critical Care conditions and to assist in clinical decision making. Strict adherence to these Guidelines does not ensure good outcomes in every clinical scenario. These Guidelines should not be interpreted as setting a standard of care, or considered inclusive of all proper methods of care or exclusive of other methods of care reasonably directed at obtaining the same results. The clinical decisions regarding the care provided to the patient must be made by the Physician, using clinical judgement, knowledge, and expertise, and considering the unique circumstances encountered and presented by each patient. These Guidelines are not intended to replace Physician judgement in the acute treatment of commonly encountered Emergency Department/Critical Care conditions.